

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An insertable gasket is made of a substantially cylindrical heat resistant metal and is formed into a configuration having raised and recessed portions formed 5 continuously and alternately as viewed longitudinally and cross-sectionally.